Media Training Consultant Bureau for Policy and Programme Support

A. Task: Strategic Media Training for BPPS Senior Managers

B. Background

The Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) are set to expire at the end of this year, and a new set of Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) will guide global development priorities for the next 15 years. At UNDP, we see this next generation of development goals as an important opportunity to advance the global sustainable development agenda.

UNDP is a main player in what has been achieved through the MDGs and has been at the forefront of the SDGs process, helping to make it truly consultative and inclusive.

Strong communications capacity is vital to position UNDP as the implementer and leader in the post-2015 development agenda over the next 15 years and beyond. We intend to capitalize on media interest in the MDGs and the new SDGs and development as a whole to raise UNDP's profile and make sure we are seen as the "go to" UN agency on these issues.

Following the BPPS senior management retreat in the last quarter of 2014, a need was identified to communicate effectively and more frequently to the media, in order to position UNDP on the sustainable development agenda.

For these reasons, and following a brief survey for media training for BPPS senior managers based in New York, senior staff expressed interest in receiving media training in October 2015.

C. Scope of Work

The selected consultant or company is expected to provide strategic media training to approximately 24 senior managers in BPPS within a two day time frame.

The training sessions should be interactive and focused towards giving effective media interviews (audio & visual), effective delivery of key messages through conversational interviews, building bridges with the media, understanding what journalists are looking for and effectively dealing with negative media coverage and anticipating crisis.

The methodology should be practical with coaching sessions for interviews.

D. Expected Outputs and Deliverables

- Present a detailed programme and methodology package for media training along with cost estimates.
- Train approximately 24 senior managers in handling media interviews effectively.
- Present feedback at the end of the training with follow up recommendations.
- By the end of the training the participants should feel empowered and confident enough to appear for media interviews in their respective areas of expertise.

F. Duration of the Work

The company is expected to undertake this assignment on 27 - 28 October 2015. The participants are expected to be around 25.

G. Required Skills and Experience

The Company or Individual Consultants should have the following experience, knowledge and skills:

- Proven experience in conducting quality and methodological trainings to international organizations i.e.
 - Empowering senior managers in efficiently handling media interviews, managing crisis communications and foreseeing crisis
 - Providing tips and techniques in delivering results oriented key messages
 - Coaching the participants on delivering effective elevator pitches
 - Communicating development results effectively
- Knowledge and understanding of UNDP's programmes and importance of donor relations and resource mobilization.
- Extensive proven experience in providing media training to international non-profit organizations. (Minimum 10 years of experience required for the lead person and minimum 6 years if any experts working with the lead person to organize the training)
- Experience of training UNDP and other UN Agencies and understanding of development work.
- Knowledge in UNDP's crisis response work is an asset.
- Excellent planning and organizational skills.
- Able to work in a culturally diverse environment.

H. Scope for Bid Price and Schedule of Payments

- The consultant must present both methodology of the training and best practices for best value for money.
- The consultant must also submit travel costs if any.
- 100% payment shall be made upon completion of all work to UNDP's satisfaction.
